

 EDITORIAL  by John Kellas

From all reports recieved, the Annual RPA Picnic proved to be alot of fun and everyone had plenty to eat. Prehaps a Fall picnic could be arranged? How about some feedback on this idea!! We have three important dates this month to plan for, the "Peace Bridge" issues (U.S. & Canadian issues), the "Herkimer at Oriskany" issue, and CINCOPEX '77. Something for all philatelic interests. New 'Stamps and Stories'

The fourth edition of the U.S. Postal Service's "Stamps and Stories" book is currently being distributed to all Management Sectional Centers, according to the USPS "Postal Bulletin" dated July 14.

To retail at $3.50 each, the new book will be placed on sale at local post offices on Sept. 1.

The new book contains the 1978 stamp values, plus new features, new stories, and the complete 1977 commemorative stamp issues, the USPS adds.

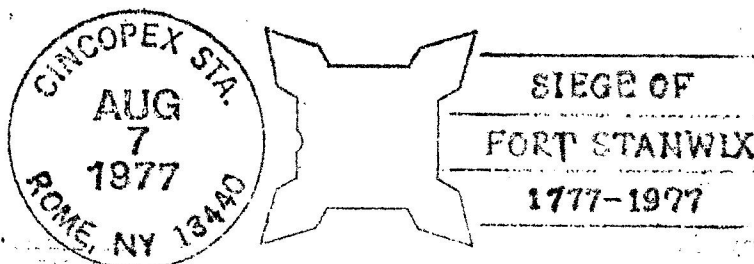

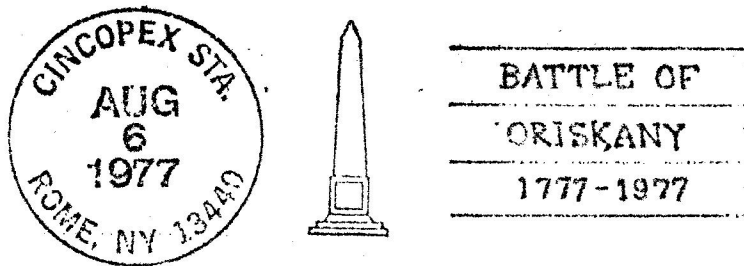

First Civil Settlement - Alta California - 1777

The 200th anniversary of the first civil settlement in northern California (Alta California) will be marked Sept. 9 with this 13c commemorative.

A special cancellation will be used in Oriskany, N.Y., in conjunction with the issuance of the Herkimer at Oriskany commemorative on Aug. 6.

Which state of the U.S. has the most post offices? If you guessed New York or California or Illinois, you'd be wrong. Pennsylvania has a total of 1,791 post offices, followed in descending numerical order by New York, 1,630; Texas, 1,509; Illinois, 1,265; Kentucky, 1,227; California, 1,122; Ohio, 1,082; and West Virginia, 1,021.

Which have the least? Delaware and Rhode Island tie with 55 each, followed by Hawaii with 76, and Nevada with 92. All the others have between 100 and 1,000 post offices. Of course, the District of Columbia has only one post office.
